
Rebecca Ruggles

Development Coordinator

Rebecca Ruggles joined the Volunteers in Medicine America team in November of 2019 as the new Development Coordinator. Rebecca graduated from the University of Central Florida - College of Community Innovation and Education with a degree in Nonprofit Management. In May of 2019 she obtained her Certified Nonprofit Management (CNP) Credential, and Workforce Trends and Equity certification, through the Nonprofit Leadership Alliance.

Prior to her work in nonprofit management, Rebecca served in clinical healthcare for 7 years in some of the nation's leading not-for-profit hospitals including; The University of Vermont Medical Center, Arnold Palmer Hospital for Children, and Advent Health (Florida Hospital). Rebecca has also worked with and volunteered for numerous non-profits and foundations, assisting with grant writing, funding proposals, program evaluations, strategic planning, recruitment, fundraising, and more.

Prior to relocating to Savannah in June, Rebecca spent nearly two years in a leadership position with the YMCA of Central Florida. Rebecca is looking forward to this opportunity to move back into a role that is driven by her belief that all people deserve to have access to quality healthcare, and is looking forward to serving our organization, the VIM clinics, and our partners and supporters.
